March 23, 2009 - METRO WASHINGTON D.C. – Creativity experts Tiffany Windsor and Julianna Hudgins will be hosting “Inspired at Home”, a new call-in talk radio show on blogtalkradio.com to air live on Sundays from 7 - 8 pm ET beginning Sunday April 26, 2009.

This creative lifestyle program will treat listeners to this lively duo’s ideas including creative tips, project ideas, product reviews and creative lifestyle interviews. In addition to weekly creative industry guest interviews, regular guest features also include Aleene Jackson, America’s beloved “Tacky” lady who will share her memories on the history of the craft industry, eco-artist and designer extraordinaire Heidi Borchers who will share her creative insights and go-green eco-crafting ideas, Candace Liccione, herbalist and herban living specialist who will talk about how living, eating and creating in balance helps us nurture our inner artist. It’s all about ideas for living a creative life!

Tiffany and Julianna’s creative roots go back many years where they worked together on Aleene’s Creative Living television show which aired for 15-years on The Learning Channel, Lifetime and The Nashville Network. Both these creative ladies have continued to share their talents through creativity coaching, retailer trainings, consumer education, book authoring and HGTV and QVC television appearances.

“Daily we hear from the Aleene’s fans who so enjoyed the Aleene’s Creative Living Television show and wondering how they can reconnect with us. Now they can through our new talk-radio program!” says Windsor. “With the support of the www.InspiredatHome.com website, our listeners can follow-up and print off the ideas and information that we’ll be sharing on the radio show and be able to talk live with us during the show. It’s a great way to make a connection!” comments Hudgins. Listeners world-wide will be able to “tune-in” to the live shows via the internet and access archived podcasts 24/7.
